Good afternoon rector, dean of our faculty, lecturers, fellow graduates and dean of faculties.

Well, we did it. We all accomplished one of the major early milestones of our lives.

University graduates, this is a major step in the journey of our lives, one that should be recognized for its immense significance. It is an act not only of personal commitment but also one of pride. We all worked hard to get to this day and our work did not go to waste. A university diploma is a wonderful tool in this world, one that opens many doors of opportunity for anyone who is lucky enough to have one.

But graduation is not an end goal in itself, instead it is a part of the larger journey of life.

Where ever your future takes you, let it take you somewhere. The graduation has already shown us how capable we all are of accomplishing our goals when we commit ourselves to them. I hope all of us here today can take this personal accomplishment as an example of how anything is truly possible when we put our minds to it.

The road that lies ahead won't be easy. There will be obstacles and missed exits but we are not alone .

From this day forward, let us make each decision with our best interest in mind. Let us believe in ourselves so that we may reach our goals and fulfil our dreams. We have already taken step by making it to this ceremony today – now its time to take the next step in the journey that is our lives and begin to build our future.
